NEW YORK JOURNALIST FOUNDS A SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

Gives $2,000,000 to Columbia, $500,000 of Which Will Be Used for the Necessary Buildings.

OUTLINE OF SCOPE AND AIM

PRESIDENT ELIOT, OF HARVARD. DEFINES PURPOSES AND NEEDS.

Present Lack of Professional Journalistic Training to Be Remedied by the New Venture.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 .- Joseph Pulitzer has provided the sum of $2,000,000 to establish a school of journalism at Columbia University, this city. A new building for the school will be erected at Morningside Heights at a cost of $500,000 for the school, which will hold toward the university a relation similar to that of the other professional schools, and, like them, will be national in scope.

An important feature of the organization of this school will be an advisory board, to be nominated by the donor. This board will aid in devising a plan and course of instruction that will meet every requirement on the scholastic as well as on the more strict- of Journalism is in successful operation, ly practical side.

Seven members of this advisory board already have been designated, and with others, to be selected hereafter, will be nominated to the trustees of Columbia University at their meeting in October. They are: Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, ex officio; Whitelaw Reid, John Hay, secretary of state, St. Clair McKelway, Andrew D. White, Victor F. Lawson, of Chicago, General Charles M. Taylor, of Boston, Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University. President Eliot's duties in connection with his own university will prevent him from serving on the permanent advisory board, but he has cordially approved the plan, has given counsel to the founder and will give to individual members of the advisory board the benefits of his great experience and knowledge. All the others named have signified their willingness to serve on the advisory board.

In making announcement of Mr. Pulitzer's gift the World to-morrow will say:

"Students purposing to enter upon the career of journalism will find accessible here courses of study that will for this profession be equivalent to what other professional schools supply for other professions, while young men already engaged on newspapers and desiring to advance themselves more rapidly by the cultivation of their aptitude may find in these courses a valuable assist-

ADVANTAGES WEIGHED.

"It is believed that this will be an advantage to them immediately, and ultimately to the press of the whole country. In every other pursuit where men are under an equal moral responsibility to the public for the proper discharge of their duties they are prepared for those duties by years of careful and conscientious study, but the newspaper men, who are in many directions the informers and teachers of the people, the exponents and to a degree the makers of that public opinion which rules communities and governs States and the nation, have hitherto received no special preparation for their delicate and important duties.

"At the time of the last census there were in the United States 114,073 lawyers and 30,098 persons classed as journalists. The legal profession was provided with trained recruits by 100 law schools, with 1,106 professors and instructors. For a proportion there should have been at least twenty-six colleges of journalism, with faculties 291 strong. There was not one. Not a single one of the 30,008 newspaper men and women in the country had enjoyed what a lawyer would call a systematic professional train-

'It is hoped and believed that the school of journalism will put this profession on a level with others in supplying a definite educational course for students, and in affording the newspapers an opportunity to recruit their staffs from a class adequately prepared for the duties of that service. 'In considering a profesisonal course for newspaper men the inquiry will obviously for the murder of her husband, said that arise, what are the bases of this instruction? What will you teach?" President Eliot, of Harvard University, having been requested to make a suggestion on this subject, submitting the following as an outline for a practical scheme: "Newspaper Administration-The organization of a newspaper office; functions of the publishers; circulation department, advertising department, editorial and reportorial departments, the financing of a newspaper; local, out-of-town and foreign news service; literary, financial, sporting and other departments. The methods of carrying on some or all of these departments probably would be the subject not only of a general survey under the heading of administration, but of detailed exposition and of training in separate courses. "Newspaper Manufacturing - Printing presses, inks, paper, electrotyping and stereotyping processes, type composition, type-setting and typecasting machines, processes for reproducing illustrations, folding, binding and mailing devices. LAWS AND ETHICS.

"The Law of Journalism-Copyright; libel, including civil, criminal and seditious libel; rights and duties of the press in reporting judicial proceedings; liabilities of publisher, editor, reporter and contributors. "Ethics of Jrurnalism-Proper sense of responsibility to the public on the part of newspaper writers; to what extent should the opinions of the editor or owner of a newspaper affect its presentation of news; relations of publisher, editor and reporters as regards freedom of opinion. "History of Journalism-Freedom of the

"The Literary Form of Newspapers-Approved usages in punctuation, spelling, abbreviations, typography, etc. Reinforcement of existing departments of instruction for the benefit of students of fournalism: In English-For reporting of news, news letters, reviews, paragraph writing, editorial writing. In History-Emphasis of geography. In Political Scienceemphasis on contemporary economic probems and financial administration. "It is probable that the scheme of in struction will include several of the academic courses now taught in the university, but will also give special prominence to the other side of the study-to the endeavor to impart by thorough teaching and training what has been hitherto acquired in the hard school of actual practice. The newspaper men who will define the process detail of this part will themselves recognize and attach a proper value to each division of this study.

"The building for the school probably will be completed by the autumn of 1904 and it is hoped that the school may be opened soon after. The course of study will be two years. Candidates will be admitted on an examination as to good character and intelligence, but previous collegiate courses

President Butler, of Columbia University, to-day made the following official announce-

"The trustees have received a gift of 1,000,000 from Joseph Pulitzer, of New York, for the establishment and endowment of a school of journalism in Columbia University. Both Mr. Pulitzer and Columbia University recognize that with the establishment of a school of journalism of university grade a new academic field is entered on, and in order that the best ability and ex- thought, has been rendered more desperate perience of the profession of journalism may guide the new undertaking an advisory board has been provided for, the first members of which are to be appointed by the university on the nomination of Mr.

"A meeting of the advisory board will be called as soon as possible after its members are appointed, and the fundamental principles which should govern the School of Journalism will be discussed and agreed on. After the suggestions of the advisory poard have been communicated to the university council and to the trustees, the work of organizing the school will proceed with all possible speed in order that instruction may be given just as soon as the building is ready for use "A committee consisting of President Butler and Profs. Burgess, Peck, Brander Matthews, G. R. Carpenter and Giddings also has been appointed to frame a report for early presentation to the university council regarding the organization and academic relations of the School of Jour-

"The length of the proposed course in journalism and its content will be decided on after the advisory board has expressed an opinion on both matters. Thorough training in written English, logic, in the elements of economics and political science, in the history of the United States and the contemporary history of Europe will certainly be included. The more technical courses will comprise instruction in newspaper administration, newspaper manufacture, the law and the ethics of journalism, the history of the press and related sub-

Mr. Pulitzer will give to Columbia University an additional million dollars, the income of one-half of which will be de-voted to the maintenance of the School of Journalism. The income of the remaining half-million will be expended for purposes to be hereafter agreed on between Mr Pulitzer and the university.

The officials believe the St. Petersburg Cabinet will hesitate before taking any steps which might add fuel to the flames in Macedonia. It is thought probable that the Russian squadron will cruise in the vicinity of the Bosphorus, or demonstrate against some Turkish port of the Black sea, rather than go to Constantinople, in order to bring pressure on the Sultan to give adequate England Will Not Object.

LONDON, Aug. 15 .- There is reason to believe that the powers, certainly Great Britain, will raise no objections to the demands of Russia upon Turkey, or to the stay of her squadron in Turkish waters until her demands shall have been fully complied with. Count Lamsdorff's representations to Bulgaria are due to the wish of the Russian government to localize the trouble, as desired by Great Britain and

The Associated Press correspondent was informed at the Admiralty to-day that no instructions had been sent to the Mediterranean fleet to proceed to the eastern Mediterranean. Two British guard ships are stationed at Constantinople and a cruiser is at Salonica. In order to participate in the naval maneuvers, the battleship Ramillies was withdrawn from Salonica and the cruiser Mohawk from Cyprus.

France Supports Russia.

PARIS, Aug. 15 .- The news that a Russian naval division has been ordered .to Turkish waters, coming on the Feast of the Assumption, when the Foreign Office is closed and public affairs, completely suspended, has not caused that impression which is likely to follow when the significance of Russia's move is more fully appreciated. Although Foreign Minister Delcasse and most of the responsible officials are absent, assurances were given that official opinion is strongly in support of Russla's action.

She has returned the decoration of the order of the Nishini-Shokapat, bestowed on her by the Sultan, and also her husband's Turkish decorations.

REBELS WIN FIGHTS.

Turkish Troops Defeated and Many Killed in Small Encounters.

LONDON, Aug. 15 .- Letters received here from Monastir, dated Aug. 6, add some information regarding the situation then prevailing to the brief reports that the censor allows to leak out. The letters say:

"The insurrectionary bands have nearly their full complement of men and those revolutionists who were delayed by the harvesting are hastening to join the colors. Heretofore the recruits were required to provide their own rifles. Now all are supplied from magazines in the mountains, Excepting two or three places possessing strategic advantages, all of the sixty or seventy villages in the Kirchevo district are | trades have not been as active the past

"In the Florina district the rebels have a large depot in a strong position in the mountains held by 600 revolutionists. Many women are baking bread day and night for those in the field and large supplies of clothing, shoes, rifles and ammunition are kept there. A spy informed the Turkish authorities of the depot and they sent a thousand troops on Aug. 4 to capture the place. The fight which ensued lasted twenty hours. Many soldiers were killed, but the stronghold was so secure that the rebels, who suffered no losses, repulsed the "On Aug. 5 sixty Turkish soldiers were

and Bulgaria's Position. SOFIA. Bulgaria, Aug. 15 .- Premier Petroff has just returned from a visit to the Macedonian frontier, where it touches the district of Dubnitza, and he takes a somewhat optimistic view of the situation in Macedonia. He believes that the outbreak will be confined to the vilayet of Monastir. where the Turks probably will succeed in suppressing the insurrection.

When interviewed to-day by a representative of the Associated Press he discussed the condition of affairs frankly and at length. Regarding the reports that Bulfect a purpose which Mr. Pulitzer has long garia was responsible for the outbreak, he pointed out that the center of the disturbed area is nearly 200 miles from the Bulgarian frontier, and is separated from it by a country largely inhabited by Turks. Consequently, he said, it is foolish to say engineering, architecture and teaching. Sub- that the movement is aided by bands from Bulgaria, and that it is equally unreasonble to suggest that the arms of the insurgents came from Bulgaria. He asserted which will be appointed by the trustees | that as a matter of fact the guns used by ufacture, and that most of them were bought from Turkish officers and men who, Building permits for the week ..... 86,144 receiving no pay, had resorted to the sale

The insurrection, he declared, was entireganized by the Macedonian internal committee, which in itself was proof of the shocking condition of affairs due to the excesses of Turkish soldiers who, on the pretext of searching for arms, entered Macelonian villages to plunder and destroy. The by the refusal of the Turks to permit the unemployed to leave in order to secure work elsewhere. This goaded the population to the most desperate measures. Premier Petroff declared that the Bulgarlan government is doing its utmost to maintain peace. "Not only is the frontier guarded to prevent the crossing of individual bands," said he, "but a rigid inspection also exists at interior points, and it is absolutely certain that no bands, large or small, are passing the frontier at this time. A few individuals may, of course, be crossing. Little excitement or enthusiasm is evident in Bulgaria now, but should the unexpected happen and a massacre of Bulgarians occur, or should the movement assume alarming proportions, the population of Bulgaria would naturaly become greatly excited and, while the government is most anxious to maintain peace it would, of course, be forced to consider Bulgarian popular sentiment. Thus a most critical situation might arise. It appears now, however, as if the movement would be confined, notwithstanding the reports of its extension.'

M. Petroff says that the Turks are pourng overwhelming forces into Monastir and that they are sufficient not only to suppress the present rising, but to destroy the entire revolutionary movement, unless the powers intervene to prevent Turkey from taking rigorous measures. On the whole the premier believes there is no immediate cause for alarm. On the contrary, he is of the opinion that the situation will soon change for the better.

WHERE BAD CHILDREN GO

THE JUVENILE COURT HAS HAD A BUSY CAREER SINCE ITS ORIGIN.

Compilation of Cases Shows that Youngsters Between Twelve and Fifteen Are Naughtiest.

A complication of statistics covering the work of the Juvenile Court for the first five months of its existence has been made, which shows that the court has had a busy existence. The court began its life March murder of the consul at Monastir district | 23, of this year, when Governor Durbin signed the bill creating it. Prior to that time for nearly two years Judge Stubbs, now judge of the Juvenile Court, and who was former police judge, created a Juvenile Court, at which he tried the young offenders who were brought in by the city police-

McCarty, near East; twoto with the result that Judge Stubbs was given charge over the new court and it was given a regular berth in the courts of Marion county. A small courtroom was arranged on the third floor of the courthouse. Mrs. Arthur Kenyon Rogers, who had been active in the work of the former court, was appointed chief probation officer. She, in turn, surrounded herself with a number of officers taken from many of the different religious denominations of the city. Since the court has been established there have been 284 cases tried before it. Of this number 271 were delinquents. There were thirteen dependents, who are children who are subject to the State institutions. There were 212 white boys and girls before the court, while there were fifty-nine colored children tried. SOME LARGE TRANSACTIONS RE-PORTED DURING THE WEEK.

Unique Building Will Be Erected in Washington Park Addition-The Week's Statistics.

In spite of the fact that August is usually the dullest month of the year in most lines of business, the past week in the realestate business kept right up to the marked activity of the past month. The transfer showing was not as large as the week previous, but the market was active and several deals of much importance, involving large sums, were closed. The building

The largest transaction of the week was the purchase of twenty-two acres of fine land adjoining the west corporation line by an Eastern company, for $18,000. The deal was handled by an East Market-street firm. A few details of the transaction have not yet been completed and the matter cannot be made public yet in full. The tract will be platted into 150 lots. The land is located at the end of a street-car line. The work of platting the land will be ge-gun at once. W. D. Allison, Robert W. Furnas and Dr. Hamilton have purchased three lots in the Washington Park addition, between Pennsylvania street and Washington boulevaid, just north of Thirty-fourth street. The land is thought to have been sold for $10,000. Messrs. Allison, Furnas and Hamiltin are planning to build on the three lots three of the most unique residences in Indianapolis. They are having plans drawn for three residences to cost about $10,000 each, which will be connected by a large hall. There will be one large barn for the three residences. One house will front on Washington boulevard, one on Pennsylvania street and the other one on Thirtyfourth street. The work or laying out the tract of land north of the city formerly the site of Newby Oval, into 200 building lots is about finished and the lots will be placed on the market before many weeks. The land lies between Central avenue and Fall creek and north of Thirty-first street. The lots will front on Central avenue, College avenue, Park avenue, Ruckle street and Broadway. They will range in price from $400 to $1,200. Sixteen and two-thirds acres of land just north of Meridian Heights were purchased this week by Albert McKachnie for $20,000. It is thought Mr. McKechnie has a residence addition in contemplation. He has not announced, however, what use he will
